Campus Experiencing Spiritual Reviving

Confessions Express Desire for Deeper Spiritual Life

Already the days of spiritual renewal for which we have been praying have begun on Taylor's campus. No one could sit in the chapel Sunday evening and hear the earnest confessions and testimonies without having a sense of the nearness of the Spirit of God. A revival has truly begun in our midst.

College campuses are often the last places where one would expect to find great revivals. However, if one will but take the time to read brief excerpts from church history, he will find that revivals have often begun among college students. Under the leadership of John Wesley in England, under the leadership of Timothy Dwight in our own land, and under the leadership of countless other men of spiritual insight in days past waves of revival have swept college campuses.

We have rejoiced in our day that we again see evidences that young people of the college group are being touched by spiritual renewal. As we approach our own Youth Conference, I am sure that each faculty member and student on Taylor's campus is looking with eager expectation that this work which has begun so well may accomplish all that it should. We may well pray, "Lord, revive thy work," and we may add as a part of that prayer, "and begin it in me."

One word of caution perhaps should be sounded. Let us not set pre-determined bounds in which we demand that the spirit of God work. Let us pray that God would give us the revival that each of our hearts needs. Let us not try to imitate the mechanical means or outward expression of any other revival. Let there be a prayerful approach on the part of each one of us to these days of special services, each one seeking eagerly to have God's will done more fully in his own heart.

If we get our eyes too much on the external means by which revival has come to other persons, we may be likely to copy the external means and fail to come to the reality of experience which we desire. In the same way in which David could not wear Saul's armor, so no one of us can copy the experience of another person or group of persons and expect to find the deepest reality in Christian experience.

A revival may come to us with the same physical manifestations with which it has come to many others. And then again, it may not. Pray God that we shall not set our own human boundaries, but shall be alert to the moving of His Spirit that He may do with each of us the work which he desires to do.

Sophs to Write Comps March 14, 15

The Sophomore Comprehensive examinations will be given this year during the forenoons of March 14 and 15, according to Dean A. Leland Forrest.

These tests are general tests, similar to the freshman entrance examinations. They are given to all sophomores to test their natural ability and to gain information concerning the type of background of each student.

The three tests that will be given this year are the Cooperative General Culture Test, the Contemporary Affairs Test, and the Cooperative English Examination.

Rev. Cleo Skelton Named Conference Sunrise Speaker

Rev. Cleo Skelton from Louisville, Kentucky is scheduled to be the Youth Conference sunrise speaker.

After graduating from Taylor in 1932, Rev. Skelton attended the Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. Entering the full-time ministry, he served as pastor of Methodist churches in Kentucky and later, in New York state.

Summer Jobs Here Require Personal Application

Students who must obtain work at Taylor this summer in order to pay their school bills should make arrangements to see Mr. Leslie Decker personally. The business manager states that they should not rely on application blanks alone for securing a position in such cases.

He also reminds students who have not paid their bill in full for this semester that the deadline for payment of this is March 15, as is stated in the school catalogue.

Bontragers Leaving For Mission Field

Bob Bontrager, and his wife, the former Mabel Bush, who attended Taylor last semester, will be leaving for the foreign mission field soon. They will be sailing in May for Belgium under the Congo Inland Mission Board. After some months of concentrated language study there, they plan to go to Africa.

Memory-O-Matic Demonstrated

The Memory-O-Matic filing system will be demonstrated to any interested parties on Saturday, March 11, and Monday, March 13 in the Magee Consultation Room, states E. Sterl Phinney.

Mr. Phinney is the representative of the Memory-O-Matic Company for this area.

The hours listed for demonstrations are: 8:40 a.m., 10:15 a.m., 1:10 p.m., 3:00 p.m., and 4:00 p.m. Mr. Phinney states that these demonstrations will also be given during evening hours to those who make appointments with him.

In the early 40's he went to India, where he taught school at Woodstock, a mission school in Missouri, United Provinces of India. From Woodstock, he went to Bombay where he pastored an English speaking Methodist church and served as superintendent of six other churches in that area.

After returning to the United States some 18 months ago, Rev. Skelton travelled for several months throughout the country. He then settled down in Louisville, Kentucky to direct a boy's school which is under the auspices of a group of Baptist churches in that city. He has been there almost a year.

Rev. Skelton was a guest speaker at chapel while visiting Taylor, his alma mater, about a year ago.

Choir in Weekend Trip to Chicago

Six concerts in two days is the A Cappella Choir schedule for the Chicago trip this week end.

The Choir will present their first concert Saturday morning from 11:00 to 11:30 over station WMBI of the Moody Bible Institute.

Two other Saturday appearances will include the Methodist Old Peoples' Home and an evening concert in a Christian Missionary Alliance church.

Sunday concerts will include services at the Philadelphia Pentecostal Church, the West Suburban Bible Church in Maywood, and a Sunday night service in the Thoburn Methodist Church, Professor Robert Glover's home church.

Dr. Ernest Edwards to Lecture, Show Film of Mexico Nature Trip

The film, "Mexican Primavera," is to be shown Friday night, March 10 in Shreiner Auditorium as a lyceum program.

The film is the most recent natural history lecture from South of the Border and is presented by Dr. Ernest P. Edwards, Instructor in Zoology at the University of Kentucky.

Varsity Quartet Featured in Week's Radio Broadcast

Taylor University will present the varsity quartet on the Feature Hour broadcast over WMRI-FM this Wednesday evening, March 8, at 7:30.

The Varsity quartet is one of the most active groups on the campus. Travelling to many cities and states in the midwest, they sing gospel songs and play instrumental numbers in churches of many denominations.

Singing and playing in this years quartet are Donovan Gerig, first tenor and trumpeter; Rey Bohleen, second tenor and trumpeter; Paul Steiner, baritone and trombonist; and Daniel Esau, bass and saxophonist. Members of the quartet are selected by Professor Paul Keller, Instructor of Voice in the school of music.

For Wednesday evening's broadcast the quartet is scheduled to sing a program of secular pieces, negro spirituals, and sacred and gospel songs. Instrumental numbers and vocal solos will complete the program.

Student Conference To Be Held at I. U.

Plans for the 1950 Student Government Conference, sponsored by Big Ten Universities and attended by representatives from all Indiana colleges and many midwestern schools, are well underway according to reports recently received from the Conference Publicity Director.

In all, 40 schools will be represented by approximately 250 student leaders and faculty members. The conference is to be held at Indiana University March 23, 24, and 25.

Main speakers for the conference will be Gordon Klopff, Director of Student Activities, University of Wisconsin; Alex Campbell, former assistant U. S. Attorney General; Agnes Anderson, President of Indiana University Faculty Women; and Robert Kelly, president of the National Student Association.

Workshop directors, chosen from various colleges will lead discussion groups. The theme of the conference is the responsibilities of Student Self Government.

This film was prepared in connection with Dr. Edwards' work toward a doctorate in Ornithology at Cornell University, where he worked under the direction of Dr. A. A. Allen. Dr. Edwards problem dealt with the distribution of the birds of the Patzcuaro Lake region of Michoacan, Mexico.

In order to make comparative studies in other sections of the country, he travelled over most of Mexico on four extended expeditions with other advanced students from Cornell.

Foremost among the varied natural history subjects is a cross section of the wealth of bird life which the ornithologist-photographer encountered.

In "Mexican Primavera" the camera journeys from the lowlands along the Rio Grande, up and over Mexico's great Central Plateau, and down along the Pacific shore of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec nearly to the borders of Guatemala.

The trip leads through fruitful valleys heavy with the scent of tropical blossoms; through rugged mountain passes; past the rumbling, smoking Volcano of Paricutin; through misty jungles bright with the colors of exotic birds into the roar of the tremendous falls of El Salto, one of the most spectacular sights of the Sabinas country of eastern Mexico.

Last winter the film and lecture were presented to the Lancaster County (Pa.) Bird Club, the West Chester Bird Club, and the Delaware Valley Ornithological Club at the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia. All of these groups received it enthusiastically, according to reports.

Gem Meets Deadlines; Expect Finished Book By End of May

In keeping with the schedule set up at the first of the school year the 1950 Gem has gone to press during this first week in March.

The final plan of the book includes over 210 halftones of which many are composite panels. These pictures and copy plus advertising combine to make a book of 170 pages. Color has been eliminated in favor of more pictures and more pages than in any preceding Taylor annual.

Wally Good, editor, reports that the extensive photographic work of Frank Shindo under the organization of Lillian Anderson and the layout ability of Elizabeth Stanley has made possible many innovations in yearbook work at Taylor. Bob Hansen, literary editor, reports that all the copy has been completed by various members of the staff in charge of the divisions of the book.

Cover production should be completed in another week and printing by the first of May. Following this it is necessary to have the books bound, an operation requiring about fifteen days.

No promises are made by the staff, except that if production continues to progress as well as it has this far, students may expect to receive the finished book sometime during the last two weeks of school.

Students Achieve Chemistry Awards

Dr. Powell, who recently purchased the spectro-photometer, a $1350 addition to the chemistry department stated recently that Norbert Anderson was awarded the Fellowship Grant in connection with the Research Grant given to the school.

This year, The Chemical Company of Cleveland, Ohio, awarded a Handbook of Chemistry and Physics to the student who has done the most outstanding work in Chemistry 101. The award has been given to Gary LaGrange, a freshman from Syracuse, N. Y.

AN OPEN LETTER

Last week for at least the second time this school year an announcement was made to the effect that if our team wins tonight, there will be no classes tomorrow. This procedure has on each occasion evoked applause at the moment, but, with more careful thought, has provoked a measure of surprise and some serious questions.

Doesn't it reflect a distorted evaluation of academic and extra-curricular activities? Why should the outcome of an athletic contest bear any different relation to the next day's classes than the effects and results of a social event, a lyceum program or a religious service?

And doesn't it place undue emphasis upon winning a ball game? In the light of what we say about our objectives in the athletic program, is a "won" game essentially different from a "lost" game? Isn't winning or losing determined in part by the quality of the team with which our team happens to be matched on a given occasion? And how is the relation between winning a game and the next day's classes different from the relation between having converts in a religious service and the next day's classes?

Furthermore, is a proclamation like this fair to the team? Does it not put the team "on the spot" when they are told that whether or not classes meet tomorrow depends upon their winning or losing the game? A number of students were heard to remark that they thought the team would have played better ball if this issue had not been involved.

If the purpose of this practice is to create goodwill and raise morale, there are better ways to do it. If we can afford to omit several days of classes during the year, why not add them to Thanksgiving or Easter vacations and solve, at least in part, some of the problems that invariably attend those vacation periods? If the purpose is, rather, to celebrate a victory, then why not be consistent and celebrate other victories which are at least as much if not more in harmony with our principles and objectives?

THE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

I believe in the Christian College because of what it did for me in those adventurous student years and for the deposit it stored for the enrichment of my entire life.

I believe in the Christian College because I believe in Christian education, which rests upon the firm faith that human personality can be changed through the employment of God's laws operative in it.

I believe in the Christian College because it is a superior college: its instructors are motivated by an imperative to think the Creator's thoughts after Him in their efforts to bring human personality to blossom.

I believe in the Christian College because it performs a most important function in the building of the kingdom of God upon earth.

I believe in the Christian College because it is a laboratory of Christian living in which students learn to live the Christian life by experience.

I believe in the Christian College because great men and women have believed so profoundly in it.

I believe in the Christian College because its best days are not in the past but in the future.

I believe in the Christian College because God has honored it with his rich blessing.

STUDENTS TO BE COMMENDED

Last Wednesday night one of our colored students was made the object of discrimination in an Indianapolis restaurant. We wish to commend those twenty or more students who walked out of the establishment after quietly informing the manager that they could not patronize a place that would not cater to all Taylor students on an equal basis.

Only by such overt acts can we hope to break down the forces of segregation that are a threat to both democracy and Christianity.

ARE YOU A MATHEMATICIAN?

When you add 2 and 2 do you get 4 or 22? Here are a few thought problems for you geniuses to work out. Names of Taylor students are hidden in the clues given. For example—A scientific name for flowers and the second president of the United States—the answer would be Flora Adams. Simple? Sure it is.

After hearing in chapel that some people are like garbage cans—collecting everything—I've been wondering how that classifies me!

There ought to be a law against pranksters who hide under beds for hours in order to pay their respects to innocent slumberers. Isn't that right, Mary Dahl?

The fellows in the "Yodle" House were enjoying the "Poet and Peasant" overture. Don Brooks, a great music lover, (or is it a food lover?) called upstairs asking the name of the composition, and interpreted the answer as "Pork and Peasant."

That ferocious monster, the mouse, is at it again. He didn't actually scare Shirley Lunde, but she found the weather on top of her dresser very satisfactory. Phil Cook lost no time in slipping into high boots and chasing the visitor with an umbrella.

Television Drama Writing Contest Announced

A nationwide collegiate writing competition, designed to encourage the emergence of new television writers, was launched recently by joint announcement of the Columbia Broadcasting System and World Video Inc., leading independent television producing organization.

The competition, to be known as the CBS Awards, is open to students in American colleges and universities. It will offer four prizes, the first to be awarded March 31, 1950, and the others at monthly intervals during the rest of the spring academic semester. The amount of the award will be $500 if the prize-winning script is of one-hour performance length, or $250 if it is a half-hour script.

The prize-winning entries will be screened by a board of editors and the final selections will be made by a three-man board.

The competition is open only to students 18 years of age or over who are residents of the United States and are attending accredited colleges or universities in the continental United States.

All entries must be original television dramas which have never been produced on the air or published. Adaptation of existing novels, short stories, plays or other literary creations will be disqualified. Scripts will be judged for originality, freshness and ingenuity in exploring television as a new intimate visual-auditory medium. The judges' decision will be final. Duplicate prizes will be awarded in case of ties. Prize-winning scripts will become the property of CBS.

Contest rules and the required blanks must be obtained by writing directly to: Director, CBS Awards, Headquarters: 15 East 47th Street, New York 17, N. Y.

My First Date

by Ken Fahl

The day of the big event arrived sooner than I had anticipated. That night, I was supposed to take my dream girl to a play. The day started the same as any other day, but along about noon, things began to happen. First, I lost my appetite, and, therefore, I did not eat my lunch. Halfway through the first class period after lunch, I was reprimanded by the teacher for not paying attention to the work we were doing.

After school, we had basketball practice. It seemed I could not make a basket from any place on the court. I was hit in the head twice by a ball passed from a teammate, and once, I made a basket for the other team. The coach finally sent me to the showers.

I still did not have an appetite at dinner time.

The time came to get ready for my date and again, I had my troubles. I tried and tried, but I just could not get that left shoe on my right foot. I finally decided I would have to put it on my left foot instead. I put on my tie and then found that I did not have on my shirt. When I had finished dressing and was ready to go pick up my girl, I began to feel rather nervous.

I climbed into the car and shut the door. I dropped the keys three times before I got them into the switch. Finally, I got the car started and proceeded on my way.

I arrived at my girl's house a few minutes early, so I had to wait for her. At last she came down the stairs and into the living room. My heart skipped a beat and almost stopped. There she stood beautiful to behold. She wore an aqua-blue evening gown, with shoes to match. I was almost too weak to stand, but somehow, I managed to help her on with her coat and we were ready to go. I helped her into the car and climbed in myself, only to find that she was behind the steering wheel. I quickly changed places and we started for the theater.

I think that this will give you some idea as to how I felt on my first date.

PARLOR RULES DRAW COMMENT

One day several weeks ago, for the first time since most of us can remember, the parlor had a strange quiet air after lunch. This unusual situation has continued ever since. The reason? A new rule: No more "dead end kid" meetings in the parlor after meals.

Hamlet Offers Advice

if you can get it

"In promulgating your esoteric cogitations or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable, philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversational communications possess a clarified conciseness, a compact comprehensiveness, coalescent consistency, and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flatulent garb, jejune babblement and assinine affectations. Let your extemporaneous descantings and unpremeditated expatiations have intelligibility and veracious vivacity without rhodomontade or thrasonical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pompous prolixity, pstitaceous vacuity, ventriloquial verbosity and vaniloquent vapidty. Shun double entendres, prurient jocosity and pestiferous profanity, obscure or apparent."

The gist of it all seems to suggest that you talk naturally, plainly, briefly, and sensibly, and don't put on airs. Say what you mean, mean what you say and don't use big words.

Here is what five Taylor students have to say about the question: What do you think of the new parlor regulations?

I think the new parlor regulations have some very good points. If boys want to be able to visit together, they might as well go up to their rooms. I don't notice many girls coming down to the parlor to visit among themselves. I think the parlor should be a place where boys and girls can visit together. When there are guests, it is nice to be able to take them into the parlor as you would if you were home. I don't see why there should be objections if these rules are kept.

Beulah Meier
The fact that the boys have been barred from the Magee Parlors is, I must say, "tragic." If we are going to have a line drawn, specifying that it is the girls' parlor and the boys must stay out, then let's have a place where the fellows may slouch and the girls and the few guests won't be shocked upon entering. This too will make it possible for everyone to be seated and we won't have any lingering in the halls.

Dan Leshner
The new parlor regulations are fine—for those who never use the parlors! The regulations don't affect me much, so my feelings are somewhat neutral. Rec. Hall is a pretty good substitute for the fellows provided it is accessible at all times. I dare say we have had worse legislation.

Paul Steiner
Personally, the new parlor regulations have not had much of an effect on me. But I feel that these regulations will help provide for a more attractive and orderly parlor. It also gives the girls and couples a chance to use the parlor. Even though I may gripe about these new regulations, I can't find any rules which are unjust.

Pete Bensen
In my estimation the parlor situation is a very touchy one. I don't believe that the measures that have been taken will help solve the problem at hand. Upon my arrival at Taylor at the beginning of the first semester, one of the things that I will always remember is the good times had in Magee-Campbell parlors. As I think back I am reminded that it was always the fellows who composed the friendliest groups. Then there is the traditional angle. Tradition is an inherited culture or attitude. It seems to me that the gathering of fellows in the parlors has become tradition and to refuse to let fellows congregate there is to break down a social law set up by the majority of the student body."

Trojans Lose Last Two; Finish Schedule With 19 - 8 Record

Tro-Janes End 4th Undefeated Year; Trip Central, Adrian

The Tro-Janes played their best game of the season as they defeated Indiana Central last Wednesday, 39-23.

The team, fighting hard from the beginning, led at the end of the first quarter, 14-8.

The score at half time was 23-12.

The guards: Dillon, Brose, Smith, and Dahl, controlled the backboards for the Tro-Janes. The Tro-Janes were paced by the hard drives of Nancy Mudge, who tallied 19 points, and Miller, who garnered 13.

Central was paced by Stone who tallied 21 out of their 23 points.

The Tro-Janes won their second game of the week Saturday, as they beat Adrian, 37-16.

The Adrian girls seemed rather tired from the trip, but nevertheless put up a good fight. Their guards were in the hair of the Tro-Janes most of the game.

Tro-Janes were paced by Laura Williams who dropped in 16 points mostly on rebounds. Mudge, Klopfenstein and Carter tallied eight, six and four points respectively.

The Tro-Janes will be going to Manchester this Saturday for a basketball playday where they will meet some tough competition. Shirley Lunde, Jo Young, and Jean Huffman will be going with them to participate in a badminton tournament.

Freshman Girls Beat Upperclassmen, 34-23

The Tro-Janes played an intrasquad game last Saturday in place of the scheduled game with Adrian College. Because of the icy roads, Adrian was unable to come down Saturday. However, they will come Saturday, March 4. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

As the game started, the two teams were rather confused because of the yellow suits. Time out was called and the freshmen were handed some blue jerseys to distinguish them from the upperclassmen.

At the end of the first quarter the freshmen were leading 13-5 and at halftime they still held the lead, 23-16. During the third quarter, the freshmen really rolled, as they tallied 11 points to the upper classmen's three. In the fourth quarter neither team was able to hit. The final score was 34 to 23, freshmen.

The freshmen were paced by Rosie Williams who was high scorer in the game, tallying 16 points. Miller followed with 12 and Eby with 6 points for the freshmen.

The upper classmen ran close to each other in the scoring. Klopfenstein was high with 9 points, followed by Danner and Mudge with 8 and 7 points, respectively.

Bees Nudge Stars In Overtime Thriller

The busy Taylor "bees" had their hands full in triumphing over the All-Stars 45-43 in an overtime game, Friday night.

The "B" team was out in front time and again only to have the militant All-Stars catch up, and thus the half ended 27-27. At the very end of the game, the All-Stars again came from behind to make it 42-42 as the gun sounded.

In the three-minute overtime the All-Stars missed four out of five free throws, Jensen getting the only good charity toss, while Kenny Wright made two and Johnny Rigel one free throw to make the score 45-43 in favor of the "B" team as the overtime ended.

Kenny Wright was high scorer for the victors with 13 points, while Horner matched with 13 points for the losers.

INTRAMURAL CHAMPS — Here they are, this year's champions of intramural basketball competition. Known as the boys from second floor Swallow Robin, this team bumped off third floor Wisconsin West, 53-21, in the final game, last Tuesday.

The two teams had earned the right to meet for the championship by winning their respective league crowns.

RUMMAGING A ROUND

with Eddie Shy

Basketball season is over, and Trojan athletics can settle down or should I say jump into a big sports program. Well at any rate there will be a lot of fast activity going forth this spring.

Spring Sports Are On the Way

Coach Odle and Coach Williams are combining their talents in coaching the baseball team. Coach Odle will be head coach; will drill the infield; and choose the line-ups. Coach Williams will manage the pitchers and catchers, and will condition the outfielders. Bruce Frase will continue as student manager. He will score the games, compile batting and fielding averages, and tabulate pitching percentages.

Coach May will handle the track team. His biggest job will be organizing, conditioning, and running time and distance trials.

Two Good Games

I think that all who saw the game Friday night against Wheaton heartily agree that Bud Schaeffer is everything he was written up to be and then a little more. Ralph Biddle, one of the officials that worked the game, said that he was positively the best basketball player he ever saw. Also, Taylor Hayes, former Trojan court-star and now coach of Eaton High School rates him the second best player in the states today.

The Varsity-Alumni game provided fans with many thrills Saturday night. It was rather difficult at times to determine whether it was a basketball or a football game. I guess that the Varsity boys were trying hard to take it out on poor ole Coach Odle. Wee Miller played with a weak knee, but still managed to do some good faking and ball-handling. Rollie Leeman surprised everyone with several one-hand shots that split the nets. Taylor Hayes demonstrated that deadly two-hand set shot several times. Coach Williams concentrated on the backboards, and together with Bud Garrett did a fine defensive job. It was really good seeing the old grads around again.

Bye for now
The Rummager.

Routed by Central; Ross Tallies 18

The Greyhounds of Indiana Central defeated the Taylor Trojans at Indianapolis, Wednesday night, by the score of 77 to 61 to end their season.

Though they were cheered on by a large Taylor crowd, the Odlemen were lacking in the height department the majority of the game, due to the fouling out of their ace rebounder, Norm Wilhelmi, early in the first half.

In the first few minutes of the game the Taylor team led and it looked as though they might give the favored Greyhounds a real battle. But, after calling a time out, the Centralites came back with five quick buckets to take over a commanding lead. The Trojans never came within four points during the remainder of the first half.

With 1:45 seconds of the first half left, Norm Wilhelmi fouled out leaving the rebounding job mainly to John Nelson. Central led at half time 41 to 30.

During the second half Taylor seemed unable to get their machine rolling and the Centralites at one time built up a lead of 20 points. They finally finished with a 16-point margin to hand the Uplanders their seventh defeat in 26 games, 77-61.

High point honors went to Indiana Central who had Swails with 26, McBride with 20 and Griffith with 19. The top scorer for Taylor was Oral Ross, who had 18 points, while Johnny Nelson had 14.

Seniors, Sophs Win 1st Interclass Tilts

In Saturday morning's first interclass games, the seniors led by center Wally Good, who netted 10 points, downed the freshman five, 33 to 25.

The classy Sophomores, winners of both the interclass softball and touch football crowns, had little trouble disposing of the juniors, 36-15. Dunkelberger led all scorers with a 14-point total.

Lose to Crusaders In Finale, 73-64

Coach Don Odle's Taylor University Trojans finished their 1949-50 basketball season last Friday night with a 73-64 loss to the Wheaton College Crusaders before a crowded house full of spectators at Maytag gymnasium. But Taylor's 19 wins in 27 attempts had set a new record for the school in the number of games won and almost equaled the percentage record set in 1941-42 when the Trojans won 13 and lost five.

In addition, Norm Wilhelmi, Chicago junior, set a one season individual scoring record of 379 points to break Coach Don Odle's former mark of 323.

Odle's old standard for one season was accumulated in 18 games while Wilhelmi appeared in 27. In fact, three Taylor cagers beat Odle's scoring record, for Oral Ross ended the season with 366 tallies and Ted Wright had 326.

The tall, husky Crusaders roared away to a quick 10-1 lead over Taylor. The Trojans were in arrears from two to 17 points throughout the first half, which ended with the Crusaders in command, 41-31. Taylor once pulled up to a five point deficit in the second half, but Wheaton drew away again.

The Crusaders held a 72-60 margin at the automatic time out.

Wheaton's fast-breaking attack and strong rebound game was augmented by a brilliant individual performance by Bud Schaeffer, 6-2 guard, who twice has been named to the nation's "Little All-America" team. He snagged 22 points, hitting nine fielders from long-range and two from close-under. He shot only 19 times.

Wheaton also produced an accurate one-handed shooter in Marv Johnson who tallied 20 points.

Taylor had four players with 10 or more points. Norm Wilhelmi led the way with 17. Oral Ross collected 13, Ted Wright 12 and John Bragg 10.

The Crusaders hit 33 of 91 attempts for an average of .363. The Trojans, who fired fast and often, had trouble in getting their shots to stick in the hoop as they caged only 28 of 112 tries for .250.

Taylor missed 13 of 21 attempts from the foul line. The Crusaders converted seven of 13.
